

Marshall University Marshall Digital Scholar

We Are ... Marshall: the Newsletter for Marshall University

Marshall Publications

10-25-2002

We Are ... Marshall, October 25, 2002

Office of Marshall University Communications

Follow this and additional works at: http://mds.marshall.edu/mu_newsletter

Recommended Citation

Office of Marshall University Communications, "We Are... Marshall, October 25, 2002" (2002). We Are ... Marshall: the Newsletter for Marshall University. Paper 128.

http://mds.marshall.edu/mu_newsletter/128

This Newsletter is brought to you for free and open access by the Marshall Publications at Marshall Digital Scholar. It has been accepted for inclusion in We Are ... Marshall: the Newsletter for Marshall University by an authorized administrator of Marshall Digital Scholar. For more information, please contact zhangj@marshall.edu.

We Are...Marshall!

THE NEWSLETTER FOR MARSHALL UNIVERSITY • OCTOBER 25, 2002

Marshall Begins United Way Drive

Left: Dr. Keith Spears, Vice President for Institutional Advancement, takes a couple of practice shots at the United Way campaign kickoff Monday, Oct. 21. Right: Royce Chadwick, head women's basketball coach, is honorary chair of this year's campaign.

Marshall's 2002 United Way Campaign is underway and will run through Friday, Nov. 22, it was announced at a kickoff ceremony earlier this week.

The theme for this year's campaign is "Choose to Care." Women's Head Basketball Coach Royce Chadwick is the honorary chair and Tom Hunter of the Office of University Communications is the co-chair.

"During the past five years, the university community has raised more than $300,000 to benefit the United Way and its affiliated organizations in the Tri-State and Kanawha Valley regions," said Chadwick. "It's important that more people become involved with this community effort. Any gift, no

(continued on page 4)

Center Sponsors Expo for Diabetes

The Marshall Diabetes Center at Cabell Huntington Hospital is sponsoring a Diabetes Expo, Tuesday, Nov. 12 from 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the Marshall Medical Center atrium.

The program is free and will include blood sugar testing, blood pressure readings, foot screenings and educational exhibits. In addition, there will be refreshments and giveaways—including four tickets to the Marshall vs. Miami football game.

People at risk for type 2 diabetes include those who:

- Are over 40
- Have a parent or sibling with type 2 diabetes
- Are overweight
- Have excessive thirst, hunger or urination
- Are in a minority population
- Have increased infections

For additional information, call the Marshall Diabetes Center at 691-1663.

Conway/Knotts Show Moves to Keith-Albee

Due to artistic requirements, the Marshall Artists Series presentation of the Tim Conway/Don Knotts show will now take place in the Keith-Albee Theatre instead of the Huntington Civic Arena. The show date, Nov. 21, and show times, 6:30 p.m. and 9 p.m., remain the same.

Organizers of the event say all ticket holders with Civic Arena seats have been issued comparable seats in the Keith-Albee Theatre and new tickets will be arriving in the mail shortly. Keith-Albee tickets will be required for admission. People not receiving their tickets should call the Marshall Artists Series administrative office, ext. 3326, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Hedricks Join Pathway of Prominence

Charles B. Hedrick and his wife, Mary Jo Locke Hedrick, of Cincinnati have presented Marshall University with a significant gift that qualifies them as the 10th member of the Pathway of Prominence.

Mary Jo and Charles Hedrick (left) watch as Campaign for National Prominence chair Tim Haymaker and campaign vice chair Gale Given unveil the Hedricks' plaque on the Pathway of Prominence. Looking on are vice chairs Verna and Jim Gibson and President Dan Angel.

Including the Hedricks' gift, acknowledged during a recent unveiling ceremony at the Pathway, $48.3 million has been raised or pledged since Marshall's Campaign for National Prominence began in 1999, according to H. Keith Spears, Vice President for Institutional Advancement and the Campaign's co-director.

"Charles and Mary Jo are longtime supporters of Marshall University academics and this outstanding gift demonstrates that their heart remains in the heart of the university," Spears said.

The Pathway of Prominence is an area dedicated to anyone who has donated at least $1 million to Marshall. It is located between Old Main and the Memorial Student Center.

The Hedricks currently support three major Marshall programs, which will become endowed through their estate. They include:

- The Hedrick Tutoring Program, which provides tutoring support in math and reading to students in grades one through three.
- The Dr. Charles E. Hedrick Outstanding Faculty Award, which annually provides a $5,000 award to the outstanding teacher at Marshall. It is named for Hedrick's father, who was chairman of the Marshall history department and chairman of the

(continued on page 4)

Faculty/Staff Achievements

Marcia J. Booth, professor in the General Studies Department at the Marshall Community & Technical College, presented a paper, "Technology and Learning: Online Partners," at the ACC Teaching and Learning 2002 conference in Ashland, Ky., Oct. 11-12.

Dr. William P. Marley, Professor and Director of the Human Performance Laboratory, Division of Exercise Science, recently published an article, "Type 2 Diabetes and Exercise: The Importance of Screening," in the Canadian Journal of Diabetes. Linda A. Marsh, Adjunct Professor of Exercise Science and Coordinator of the Cabell Huntington Hospital/Marshall Medical Center Diabetes Exercise Center, was the co-author. Marley also presented a paper, "Type 2 Diabetes Exercise and Education Program Management," at the Third Annual World Congress On Disabilities in Orlando, Florida Oct. 4.

Jose L. Morillo, Associate Professor of Modern Languages, delivered a paper, "Del sentido de la vida y de la muerte en el cancionero de la izquierda espanola," at the 52nd Mountain Interstate Foreign Language Conference at Furman University Oct. 12.

Stephen D. Cooper is a co-author of "Collaborative Musical Expression and Creativity Among Academics: When Intellectualism Meets Twelve Bar Blues," which was published in The American Communication Journal, Vol. 6, Issue I, Fall 2002. The article is available on-line at www.acjournal.org/holdings/vol6/iss1/special/radford.htm.

We Are...Marshall!

Published by University Communications, with offices in Huntington (213 Old Main) and South Charleston (312 Administration Building).

The next regular issue of We Are...Marshall! will carry an issue date of Nov. 8, 2002. Deadline is Nov. 1. Articles or other materials for consideration should be sent to Pat Dickson, editor, at the South Charleston campus or by e-mail to pdickson@marshall.edu.

CTC Students, Staff Mark Physical Therapist Month

Students in the Marshall Community & Technical College Physical Therapist Assistant Program are celebrating Physical Therapist month with a variety of activities, according to Travis Carlton, who was named program coordinator in August.

Kara Aston, president of the Physical Therapist Assistant (PTA) Club, is coordinating fundraisers, which will include the sale of candles and candy bars, a car wash and a "massage day" later this year. According to Carlton, the funds will be used for program activities such as graduation ceremonies and orientation sessions.

The program is busy preparing for an on-site accreditation visit by the Commission on Accreditation in Physical Therapy Education, to be conducted Nov. 17-20.

Applications for the class of 2004 are currently being accepted, according to Carlton. For additional information, contact him at ext. 3008 or at carltont@marshall.edu.

Grants Seminar Coming Nov. 22-23

A seminar, "Write Winning Grants," will be offered Friday, Nov. 22 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Saturday, Nov. 23 from 8:30 to 11:45 a.m. in the Harless Auditorium of the Marshall Medical Center.

Sponsored by the Marshall University Research Corporation, WV-EPSCoR, the College of Science, and the School of Medicine, the sessions will emphasize in particular how to write award winning National Institute of Health and National Science Foundation grants. It is being offered free to Marshall faculty and staff.

Information disseminated about the program notes that it will emphasize the two essential ingredients of good grant writing—developing an innovative idea for the grant application; and effectively packaging and presenting that idea. Tips and strategies to be covered include:

- The three most common reasons grant applications fail
- The review and submission process
- Identifying the most applicable sources of funding
- Making an application reviewer friendly
- Understanding grantsmanship

Organizers say the comprehensive seminar covers both concepts and practical aspects of the grant-writing process and is designed to be informative while also entertaining. Successful applications from NIH and

(continued on page 4)

Marshall Foundation Elects Officers

John Jay White, president of R.H. Adkins Company, was elected president of the Marshall University Foundation, Inc. during its annual meeting on Oct. 10.

Other officers elected to one-year terms were: Monica J. Wilton Hatfield, first vice president; Gary G. White, second vice president; A. Michael Perry, secretary, and Phil E. Cline, treasurer. Sherry H. Asbury is the Foundation's executive director.

Members re-elected to a three-year term were: Paul E. Arbogast; William C. Campbell, Cline; Noel P. Copen; Thomas Craig; John D. Drinko; Nancy L. Francis; R. Sterling Hall; Stephen P. Hatten; Charles C. Lanham; David E. Lowe; Thomas J. Maxwell; Beverly S. McKinney; Marc C. Sprouse, Charles E. Turner and White.

Directors elected to a three-year term were: Campbell, Cline, Copen, Francis, Hatten, Lanham and White.

Music Department to Host Music Educators Association

A wide selection of programs will be offered by the Marshall Department of Music in the coming weeks.

The West Virginia Music Educators Association Fall Festival takes place on the Huntington campus Oct. 26 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. It is followed by the West Virginia Music Educators Association State Convention, which runs Oct. 29 through Nov. 2.

Guest artist and clinician for the convention will be Tony Caramia, piano. He will be joined by the Marshall Jazz Ensemble Oct. 30 at 8 p.m.

Caramia also will perform with Bluetrane in From Ragtime to Swing as part of the Birke Symposium, "1900 Paris to USA 1940," Nov. 1 at 8 p.m.

Other Department of Music events include a junior recital by Marlayna Maynard, soprano, Nov. 3 at 3 p.m.; guitar ensemble, with Dr. Leo Welch directing, Nov. 7 at 8 p.m.; Bach and More. Nov. 10 at 3 p.m.; junior recital,

(continued on page 4)

Newby to Keynote Ethnic Studies Colloquium

Dr. Robert G. Newby, Professor of Sociology at Central Michigan University, will be the keynote speaker for Colloquium: Ethnic Studies in the University Curriculum, which will take place Nov. 14 and 15 in the Memorial Student Center.

Organizers say the colloquium has been organized to promote awareness, understanding, and respect for cultural pluralism and diversity; provide members of the Marshall community who are interested in Ethnic Studies the opportunity to consult with an expert in the field and representatives of

(continued on page 4)

Marshall Theatre To Present "Hay Fever" Starting Nov. 13

A light-hearted comedy, focusing on the antics of a zany family, is the next production of the Marshall University Theatre.

Set in the 1930s, "Hay Fever," written by Noel Coward and directed by Jack Cirillo, introduces the audience to the ultra-Bohemian Bliss family. Mother is a retired actress who makes a crisis out of every scene and father is a novelist. The daughter and son are handsome but ill-mannered. The family is used to such displays, but guests are bewildered by the goings-on.

When it first opened in New York, the show received glowing reviews, including accolades from The New York Times, which characterized it as "light, luminous and charming" and the New York Post, which dubbed it "hilariously funny."

Cast members include Tressa Preston, Michael Beck, Brandon McCoy, Laura Frye, Jason Eldridge, Courtney White, Jessica Dunphy, Jerry Donahue and TiAnna Toney.

The show will run Nov. 13 to 16 at 8 p.m. in the Joan C. Edwards Playhouse. Ticket costs are: Marshall faculty/staff, senior citizens and children, $8; Adults, $10; Marshall students, free with valid student ID; groups of 20 or more, $7. The box office opens Wednesday, Oct. 30 and will remain open from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily. Its extension is 2787. For additional information, call ext. 7184.

Ethnic Studies Colloquium from Page 3

important Tri-State ethnic communities; and serve as a catalyst for the development of a broadly conceived, inclusive Ethnic Studies curriculum in the College of Liberal Arts.

In addition to giving the keynote address, Newby will conduct two teaching workshops and will participate in panel discussions with members of the faculty. On Friday evening a program, which is open to the public, will highlight traditional Indian dance featuring the Tri-State Indian Association, along with Native American Indian poetry and storytelling, traditional Arabic dance and other events.

The program is presented under the auspices of the Marshall University's Commission on Multiculturalism, Subcommittee on Racial and Ethnic Affairs.

For more information and the schedule of events, consult www.marshall.edu/ill/ethnic_studies/ or contact the Office of Multicultural Affairs & International Programs at 4677 or the College of Liberal Arts at 2350.

Hedricks from Page 2

Graduate Council.

The Charles B. and Mary Jo Locke Hedrick Scholarship, a four-year award of full tuition, fees and books to an academically talented student from West Virginia with first priority going to students from Cabell, Logan, Putnam and Wayne counties.

The Hedricks also support the Marshall University Center for Teaching Excellence.

"This is a particularly significant contribution from the Hedricks because it matches specific needs that Marshall has with specific desires that the Hedricks have in accomplishing the goals of their endowment," said Tim Haymaker, national chairman of the campaign. "It's great when people and programs match up."

Music Department from Page 3

Kelly Greenwood, percussion, Nov. 10 at 8 p.m.

Most events take place in the Smith Recital Hall. For more information, contact the Music Department at ext. 3117. The Web address is www.marshall.edu/music.

Grants Seminar from Page 3

NSF are used as the prototypes for instruction but the principles learned are applicable to any funding agency. In addition, each participant will receive a copy of The Grant Application Writer's Workbook.

Participants are asked to register online by Nov. 1 at www.marshall.edu/murc/competitive/registration.htm. For additional information, contact Katie Cains at ext. 4845.

United Way from Page 1

matter the size, makes a tremendous impact on our region. Many more lives can be touched this year through your support."

One hundred percent of the dollars contributed stay here locally, benefiting approximately 75 non-profit agencies in the River Cities and the Kanawha Valley. For more information on the campaign, contact Hunter at ext. 2028 or visit the United Way campaign Web site at www.marshall.edu/mugc/unitedway.